To Whom It May Concern,

Well, I am eventually please that I am writing this letter on behalf of Autism Society of the Florida Keys.

We are a family of 7 and we have the bless of have a special boy name Nathan Watson who is in the autism spectrum. He was diagnosed at early age. We join the Autism Society of the Florida Keys parent support group in September 2017 as a way to cop with the news and received advise of this bright new world in our family. Days after that, hurricane Irma hit our island and specifically destroyed our home completely. I can only say good words over this support group and his organization from there: they guide us in a severely impact moment, they support us, the provide us (donate) items such as ipads, trampoline, school supplies and so much more that is hard to remember for all the rest that as a parent we was having to commit and contain. The help didn't finish there, since them they being holding our hands for school advise and all the support we being needing for our Nathan's needs, economically we were grand with help to hire an advocate to support us in the school and provide numerous sensory items to help us with therapies at home.

I can only said good words about this group, they help us on our most deepest moment and more than anything, they where there to ask for us what we couldn't verbalize at that time.

Again, is an absolutely honor for us to consider this group our main support in Nathan's and our family journey to recommend them through this letter. You can contact us for any additional information at anytime.

Sincerely,

O. WATSON.
